work to be done. Shall non-intervention by Congress with slavery in the Territories have the irrepressible conflict between North and South? For a dozen years, men have foreseen the difficulty of this question of elavery in the Territories. Nearly half a Continent is yet to be organized into Territories, and in each act of organization this unestion is involved. Don't agitate the question, shouts the blockhead. But the Territories must be organized, and how will you avoid agitation? One side offers an amendmen' to prohibit slavery, the other to proteet it. The men of 1850 would do neither, and h is not possible to reconcile both see-

I do not suppose that any gentleman advocating this platform in the Senate, means or desires distinctor. I acquit each and every man of such a purpose; that I believe, in my conscience, that such a platform of principles, insisted upon, will lead directly and inevitably to a dissolution of the Union.

This platform desired upon will lead directly and inevitably to a dissolution of the Union. This platform demands congressional intervention for slavery in the Territories in certain events. What are these events' In the event that the people of a Territory do not want slavery, and will not provide by law for its introduction and protection, and that fact shall be ascertained judicistly, then tongress is to address the fact shall be ascertained judicistly, then tongress is to address the fact shall be ascertained judicistly. legislation, the advocates of the caucus platform are willing to let them have it, evitably will receive two, directly the opposite of each other, and each will be main tained with equal pertinacity. The resolu tion contains, in my opinion, two trueisms, and, fairly considered, no man can question them. They are: first, that every eitizen of the United States has an equal right in the Territories: that whatever right the citizen of one State has, may be enjoyed by the citizens of all the States: that whatever property the citizen of one State may carry th the citizens of all the States may carry there, on whatever terms the citizens of one State can hold it and have it protected, the citizens of all States can hold it and have it protected of all Statescan hold it and have it protected, without deciding what the right is, which still remains for decision. The second proposition is, that a right of person or property secured by the Constitution cannot be taken away either by act of Congress or of the Territorial Legislature. Who ever dreamed that either Congress or a Territorial Cariela lucy and the legislature. torial Legislature, or any other legislative body on earth, could degree or impair any right guarantied or secured by the Consti-tution? No man that I know of. This re-solution leaves the same visit or the constisolution leaves the same point open that remains open for the courts under the Cinremains open for the consts under the Cincinnati platform, and under the Kansas Nebraska bill. My objection is that it bears upon its face the evidence that it is to be construed in two opposite ways in the different sections of the Union. I want no double dealing or double construction. I am willing to stand on the Cincinnati platform, as you agreed to it, and as it was re-enacted at on agreed to it, and as it was reenacted at the state of come or the state of the s

I have always given to it; you may give it yours. We differ only on a law point; let the court decide that, and I only ask that you will bow to the decision of the court with the same submission that I shall, and carry it out with the same good faith. I want no new issue. I want no new test.

We will be a none on your early letter that the same of the same submission that I shall, and carry it out with the same good faith. I want no new issue. I want no new test. want no new issue. I want no new test. I will make none on you, and I will permit you to make none on me.

We are told that the party must be preserved. I agree that the best interests of the country require that it should be preserved in its integrity. How can that be done, except by abiding by its decisions. The party has pronounced its authoritative voice on the vory points at issue between you and me. The party rejected your cancus platform by twenty-speen majority and you and me. The party rejected your can-cus platform by twenty-seven majority on a fair vote. The party ammed the Cincin-nati platform almost manimously. Hence it becomes the duty of every Democrat, every man who expects to remain a Democrat, to acquiesce in the decision of the party, and support its nomination when it hall be made. In un other way can the party be united or preserved. preserve the party by allowing a minority to overrule and dietato to the majority? 1s the party to be preserved by abandon-ing the fundamental articles of its ereed, and adopting intervention in lieu of non-intervention. Shall the majority surrender to the minority. Will that restors harmony. Will that produce frate-nity. Suppose that the majority should surrender to you, the minority—should justify the secreters and bolters—will that reunite us. You tell us that if we do this, you will grant no corter. that if we do this, you will grant no quarter on the point in dispute. The test is to be kept up by the minority against the majority; ty bolters against the regular organization: by seceders against those whose political fidelity would not permit than to bulk and the results against them to bolt; and the regular organization is required to surrender at discretion to the secreters, with notice served, that no "quarter" is to be granted. That is the conciliation that is tendered! That is the clive branch that is extended to us! You will permit us to vote for your candilate, if we will only allow a minority to nominate him! You will permit us to vote for a candilate on a platform that the minority dictates and the minority has rejected. and the majority has rejected!

Suppose the minority should get their platform and candidate, and they should go before the country appealing to the Democratic masses to rally in their majesty around the Democratic organization, and support its nominations—a minority candidate forced on the minority candidate forced on the majority, asking our voice, with no-lice, "If you voice for me I will grant no quarter, I will put you to the sword; there is not a man of you that is fit to be chair-man of a committee, or a member of a cabinet, or a collector of a port, a post-master, a light-house keeper." as to ask or accept votes on terms so dis-On the contrary, sir, we, the Democratic party, speaking through its regular organi-tation, and by authority of the party, say to you, erring men as you are, that we will grant quarter; we submit to no test, and nake none; we are willing to fight the baton the same platform, and with the same fraternal feeling. If you differ from us, we recognize your right to differ without im-pairing your political standing, so long as you remain in the regular organization, and support the nominees. I care not whether you agree or differ with me on the points of law that have divided us. If you should happen to be right, and I wrong, it would not prove that you were a better fremocraf than I; but that you were a better lawyer than I am, so far as that one branch of law is concerned. I should not have much pride of opinion on the point of law, but for the me "Judge," [langhter;] having, among my youthful indiscretions, accepted that office and acquired the title; and I do claim that, with that title I have a right to think as I please on a point of law until the court decides that I am wrong.

Mr. President, I owe an apology to the Senate for detaining them so long. I present my profound acknowledgements for the courtesy and kindness that have been extended to me. I would not have claimed Union. Whenever you incorporate intervention by Congress into the Remocratic creed, as it has become the cardinal principle of the Republican creed, you will make wo sectional parties, hostile to each other, never cease until the one shall substitute the party in the United States! Why cannot we cannot we agree on this great principle of non-intervention by the Federal Government with the local and domestic affairs of the Ter-ritories, excluding slavery and all other irri goveru themselves, so far as the Constitution of the United States imposes no limitation upon their authority. Upon that principle there can be peace. Upon that principle you can have slavery in the South as long as you want it, and abolish it whenever you are tired of it. On that principle was care. are tired of it. On that principle we can selves, shall prescribe. On that principle, you on the l'actic coast can shape your own institutions so that they will be adapted to your own people. On that principle, Whig party adopted it as a cardinal article in their creed, and so did the Democracy. Let your Whigs, your Democrats—all conrvative men who will not be aboliti-

Washington, May 24.—A philanthropic scene occurred in the antercom to the representatives hall to-day. A handsome mulatto slave girl appeared in the charge of Dr. Davidson, with a statement that she had been sold to a negro-trader, but by raising $500 cash, and securing the payment of $700 more by the 1st of August, she could purchase her freedom. The amount was promptly raised among the Republican members, and the girl is now free.

Only negatives.

The 6th resolution was then reported, as follows:
